

100 Yards of Hope

Greetings IAH Members

Meet the I'On Resident who successfully partnered Special Operations veterans with marine scientists to save Florida's Coral Reef. Jim Ritterhoff, an I'On resident, will discuss his non-profit organization, Force Blue, which was formed to save the coral reef along the coast of Florida.

A year and a half in the making, "100 Yards of Hope" is the story of how an eclectic group of marine scientists and Special Operations veteran divers came together as a team. And how, in their fight to preserve and restore Florida's Coral Reef, that team built a model for similar environmental projects around the world.

Click HERE to view the Force Blue video.

A link to the documentary will be provided before the event; please watch the full documentary which is approximately 40 minutes. Bring a chair and your favorite drink to the event on April 15 at 4PM where you can meet Jim and have him recount his experiences in forming Force Blue as well as answer any questions. Joe Fanelli organized this event.

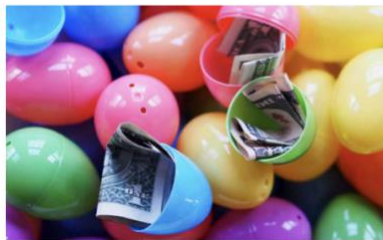

Vaccination Required

Don't miss this week's other events:

Thursday, April 14 at 2PM

Create a Flower Arrangement with Barbara Fowler

Saturday, April 16 at 10AM

Easter Egg Hunts aren't for Kids anymore: Raise Money for your Favorite Charity!

Elizabeth Hazard is chief bunny in charge.

CLICK HERE to see the latest information on upcoming IAH events and programs.