

A community of friends enjoying enriched, vibrant and independent lives together

Greetings IAH Members

Our Big, Beautiful World: Meet I'On neighbor Drew Doggett whose photos tell stories of cultures and communities through a fashion-inspired lens.

Our Big, Beautiful World is a 50-minute talk delivered by photographer, filmmaker and I'On neighbor Drew Doggett alongside his award-winning images and short films. It is at once a whirlwind journey to faraway lands, a riveting call to action, and an extraordinary argument for how all beings on this Earth are more alike than not.

Drew takes viewers to the remote speck of land known as Sable Island and its wild horses, to visit the Rendille people living near the Chalbi Desert of Kenya, and to Iceland's surreal landscape with many more stops in between. Our Big, Beautiful World reveals the connections we share across species and borders, as well as the uncanny and singular ability of photography to intimately inform, excite, and share messages of hope.

As background, after college, Drew worked with some of the most recognizable names in the fashion industry—e.g.: Mark Seliger, Steven Klein and Annie Leibovitz. Drew then crisscrossed the globe on photoshoots to capture celebrities, musicians, and models including Madonna, Desmond Tutu and President Obama. His career took a new direction when he decided to use his camera to preserve places that may be unsung or at risk.

Join us on Wednesday, April 13 at 3PM for Our Big, Beautiful World.
