

Dear IAH Members, Meet Mary Holtz, IAH's Administrative Manager

Approaching my third year as the Administrative Manager of I'On At Home I'm constantly amazed at what a truly collaborative organization it is. From the Board and committee members volunteering their time and talents, to the service volunteers helping their neighbors, to the dynamic Programs Committee developing ever new and interesting programming. I'm just happy to be able to facilitate the real work done by the members themselves.

My office is in my home and my "company" is out my front door, with my "co-workers" down the street. That's tough to beat...now if I can just find the water cooler...

*Have a good week,
Mary Holtz
IAH Administrative Manager*

Don't miss these great programs coming this week

This Tuesday, February 28th 2:00PM - 3:00PM
Public Affairs Panel Discussion via Zoom

Join our panel of experts as we discuss the political landscape as the Presidential primary season begins to heat up.

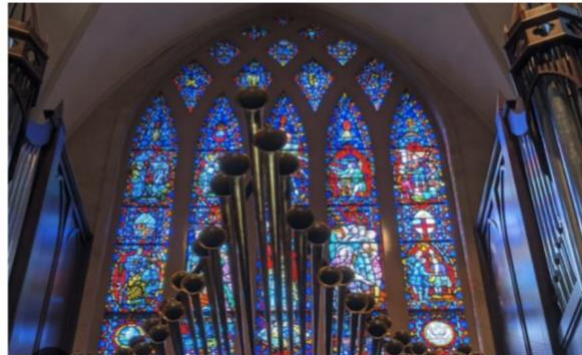

Who will join former President Donald Trump and our own Nikki Haley on the Republican side? Why is President Joe Biden delaying his own re-election campaign? How is Kevin McCarthy handling his new role as Speaker of the House of Representatives? And why is Rep. Nancy Mace suddenly a media star? In addition to these domestic issues, we will also discuss the implications of the Chinese spy balloon incident, as well as the current state of the war in Ukraine as it enters its second year.

Please join us for an informative discussion. Please register to get the Zoom link.

Nicholas Quardokus Concert on the Grace Church Cathedral Organ
March 1st at 2:30 - 4PM

Come and experience a Kaleidoscopic Exploration of Pipe Organ Music from Germany, France, England and the USA.

Brilliant young organist, Nicholas Quardokus is a genius at improv and a master of classical and contemporary organ works. Nick came to Grace Church Cathedral in 2021 from St. Thomas Church, Fifth Avenue, NYC, where he accompanied the acclaimed Choir of Men and Boys, having completed his Master of Music at the Yale University Institute of Sacred Music. Don't miss hearing his incredible talent as he speaks to us about the capabilities of Grace's exceptional organ and takes us on a musical tour of the great classics

IAH Pop-Up Walks

It's warming up in the Lowcountry and time to enjoy walking (and chatting) with your IAH friends! This activity is open to all and this year we'll be trying something new. Instead of a monthly walk, we'll be having "pop-up" walks based on who wants to participate, when and where.

Libby Eble, our trekking leader, has volunteered to organize these walks. If you would like to participate, just email Libby and she'll contact you when one is coming up.

Here's a continuation of videos recommendations in the "Behind the Scenes" genre that we think you might interesting. Enjoy!

Brewery Tour: Dogfish Head Craft Brewery

Brewing TV makes the pilgrimage to the World of Dogfish Head: the mothership brewery in Milton, DE and the O.G. brewpub in Rehoboth Beach. We learn about Dogfish Head's homebrew-scale Small Batch Brewing program and see how the ideas behind small-batch experimental brewing influence the brewery's large-scale commercial releases. Off-centered brew for all!
