

Greetings I'On At Home members, IAH Strategic Planning

Making IAH Even Better!

IAH is off to a roaring start this fall! Our dedicated volunteers across committees are coming up with a varied and exciting array of events, activities, and service offerings to make IAH an even better organization.

With the organization in such great shape, we can create a Strategic Plan focused on making IAH the best it can be. We began with a random sample survey, along with a series of individual member interviews. Happily, we found that the level of satisfaction with IAH is very, very high! And these insights also gave us a whole lot of great new ideas.

Now we are developing offerings for the different age groups and interests in our membership, for those in working/non-working situations, and for both couples and singles. We are looking at expanding participation in our most popular events, planning more small group gatherings, organizing group events in Charleston and beyond, and opening up additional opportunities for volunteering, as just some examples.

We want to make IAH even more valuable for all our members, living up to our commitment to truly be 'a community of friends enjoying enriched, vibrant and independent lives together.' If you have more ideas and would like to tell us about them and perhaps be part of making them happen, just let me know at jayneceastman@gmail.com; we'd love to hear from you!

Thank you, Jayne Eastman
IAH Vice President

Tour, Wednesday Sept 27th at 3PM

Come for a talk and guided tour by Hannah Shannon, the Art & VIP Coordinator who works with all the artists. She will discuss the artists, history of the gallery and SEWEE and then answer any questions.

The gallery is a new expression of the Southeastern Wildlife Exposition's passion for the great outdoors. It is an art gallery and studio space showcasing the country's finest wildlife art and artists. It hosts curated exhibitors and artist residencies, special exhibitions, and events. Focusing on wildlife art and artists, the Gallery by SEWE is a year-round extension of SEWE's mission to preserve wildlife art and support conservation by helping transform the love of art into advocacy and action.

On Saturday, October 7th,

Broadway Comes to I'On

Make your way to 90 North Shelmore, I'On's favorite musical venue, for an afternoon performance featuring Kate Small and her talented trio performing show tunes from some of Broadway's best musicals.

Showtime is 4:00 p.m.

Guests and friends are welcome to join the performance
